Captain Andrew’s Column

I haven’t got time! Do you find yourself saying that sometimes? It’s easy to say when we want to avoid doing something. There’s a saying, if you want something doing ask a busy person, but today we are told that we need to take time to sit back, reflect and relax if we’re not going to burnout. Time management is something we should concentrate on, planning our lives and how we allocate our time is something that is important if we want to get done all we need or want to do. Our reading today from the OT explains that there is a time for everything, under the sun in fact. The reading lists actions saying wisdom is knowing the proper action to take. The actions listed are exact opposites; negative; to uproot, hate, etc. and positive; healing and building up. You may recognise it as the Byrds Song, ‘Turn, Turn.’ There is a time for this or that and we should always seek God for the best action to take in all things. Let’s seek God in all our time and actions.
