I’m sure we know who said that, the erstwhile Victor! He normally said it when something incredible happened to him. You can almost see Thomas saying the exact same thing when the Disciples told him they’d seen the Lord. Thomas’s understandable reaction was that it couldn’t be true. The disciples were in turmoil, confused at what happened, Jesus it appears had gone, but now was back. ‘Doubting Thomas’ response is exactly the same as we would feel, wouldn’t we? He wanted proof and that’s exactly what we all want, don’t we? Sometimes we want a glimpse of something to hold on to. We have God’s word, peoples’ testimonies. Thomas didn’t have that so I think we can be a little kind to him. Do we ever feel like the disciples, not understanding what has gone on? We all have doubts along our faith journey, ups and downs but we have to hold on to the reality of what Easter really means, the hope that Jesus reappearing. No it’s more than that; coming back to life which gives us the confidence we need and can claim. |
