I earned my money its mine and their government has got plenty of money, charity begins at home and I only give to 1 particular charity are all commonly used phrases. I came across this quote from John D Rockefeller recently ‘Think of giving not as a duty, but as a privilege.’ It would be quite reasonable to think it’s OK for him and his family they have got pots of money and they wouldn’t miss it. While that may be true, how many of us really had to give something up to put money in our envelopes today? We call it self-denial but are we really denying ourselves anything or are we giving out of our relative riches? We are told in 2 Corinthians 9:6-7 “Remember this: Whoever sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and whoever sows generously will also reap generously. Each of you should give what you have decided in your heart to give, not reluctantly or under compulsion, for God loves a cheerful giver.”
